

STERTHOUS

STERTHOUS is a new line of everyday carry accessories designed and hand-crafted in small batches by Kevin O'Donnell in his Brooklyn, New York studio. The collection of bags and backpacks are designed to go from the workweek to the weekend away and built to be a constant companion in your daily journeys.

The advanced materials that make up all STERTHOUS products are carefully selected for their unique style as well as their durable and sustainable attributes. Recycled materials and vegan microleather feature prominently in the line of bags to create products with high style and low environmental impact.

STERTHOUS is also a family name which originally translates to “the house at the end of the road”. The bags are built for the road - both the local and far flung paths that we travel everyday. STERTHOUS products are made to go with you wherever your road may lead.
